BRITISH LUNGE DEEPER INTO MARETH LINE

HILL SEIZED OVERLOOKING GABES PLAINS

With Eighth Army Reporting Gains Americans Take Possession of Mountain Position

GERMANS ARE REPULSED

By ROGER GREENE

Associated Press War Editor

British 8th Army assault troops, rallying from their initial setback, were reported lunging deeper into the Mareth Line in southern Tunisia today, while other British forces were credited by the Algiers radio with seizing a key hilltop "near El Hamma," 20 miles west of Gabes.

An Algiers broadcast said the British had completed occupation of a height "overlooking the whole of the Gabes plain" after beating off Axis counter-attacks.

Gabes itself lies 20 miles north of the Mareth Line.

To the northwest, American troops were reported holding strong mountain positions after a 10-mile advance from the El Gueata oasis on the road to Gabes from Gafsa.

Frontline dispatches said the A. E. F. contingent repulsed a German infantry attack and now commanded Djebel Berda heights at the south side of El Gueata Pass, 20 miles southeast of Gafsa.

The German high command summarized the campaign in two brief sentences:

"Thrusts of local importance carried out by British-American formation on the Tunisian front collapsed. One of our own counter thrusts proved successful."

One report said Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had slackened his counterattacks in the Mareth zone, after losing 40 of 100 tanks thrown into the struggle on Tuesday, but other accounts declared the battle was raging at peak fury.

"The British 8th army made some advances in the El Hamma area, rendering the position of the Africa corps difficult," an Algiers broadcast said.

The British flanking column, which had swept 100 miles along the southern end of the Mareth Line, was reported within eight miles of El Hamma two days ago.

Simultaneously, a Morocco radio broadcast said Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's main British 8th army was locked in "bloody engagements and hand-to-hand fighting" at several points along the Mareth Line.

The German-controlled Vichy radio said attacks and counter-attacks were erupting in swift succession as Gen. Montgomery battered at the formidable "Little Maginot" defense works and Field Marshal Erwin Rommel attempted to prevent a new British breakthrough.

Farther north, the left flank of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's U. S. armored forces was reported to have reached a point seven miles beyond Maknassy, on the fringe of the narrow coastal plains which Rommel must guard to keep open

FORMER TENNIS QUEEN MAY NEVER PLAY AGAIN

Manhattan, Kas., Mar. 26.—(P)—

The racket-wielding right hand that Mrs. Helen Wills Roark used to smash tennis opponents was in bandages today and the famous court star may never play again.

Several bones were removed from the hand in an operation a week ago at Fort Riley, Kas., where Lt. Adrian Roark, husband of the former national and Wimbledon champion, is stationed.

Attending physicians said she may never again regain complete use of the hand.

Harrisburg, March 26.—(P)—A Republican legislative leader today said a proposed investigation of the department of Democratic Auditor General F. Clair Ross has been called off at least for the 1943 session of the general assembly.

Rep. Franklin H. Lichtenwalter, Republican house leader, said the brief time remaining until final adjournment April 29 left too short a time for undertaking the inquiry now.

GOP Hopeful For Passage Of Ruml Plan

BY FRANCIS M. LE MAY

Washington, March 26.—(P)—New predictions of a house victory for the Ruml plan to skip an income tax year were voiced by Republicans today but Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the ways and means committee took an opposite view, declaring "the Ruml plan is beaten."

Meanwhile, some Democratic leaders despaired of their ability to pass the ways and means committee's tax collection bill, which would abate no taxes and make pay-as-you-go optional for any taxpayer electing to double-up by paying two year's taxes in one, after which he would remit on current year income.

DAVIS STATUS IS OUTLINED BY PRESIDENT

New Food Administrator to Take Up Immediately Formation of a Land Army

PLAN MORE MACHINERY

Washington, March 26.—(P)—President Roosevelt said today that his new food administrator, Chester C. Davis, operating virtually an autonomous agency, would take up immediately the question of forming a land army to help turn out the nation's food supply.

At the same time, the chief executive told a press conference that 550,000 farm workers already had been deferred from military service and that Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey estimates that 3,000,000 additional people on the farms would be deferred this year.

In a lengthy discussion of farm problems, Mr. Roosevelt also said that the War Production Board has taken steps to insure a greater supply of farm machinery to those who till the land.

The president released today the executive order setting up the new office of Food Production and Distribution, of which Davis will take charge on Monday. Davis will cooperate with Agriculture Secretary Wickard, Mr. Roosevelt said, but in final decisions, Davis would come to him. This will remove nearly all phases of the wartime food program from Wickard's control and leave him to handle the old line bureaus of the agriculture department.

To make clear another point, the president said Davis also would have authority over farm prices.

The appointment of Davis, president of the Federal Reserve Bank at St. Louis and former agricultural adjustment administrator, was announced by President Roosevelt yesterday in a statement which left unanswered, for the time being, the exact scope of his duties and responsibilities.

The White House announcement, which evoked expressions of approval from major farm organizations and leaders of the congressional farm bloc, said Davis' agency would be located in the agriculture department and that it would have charge of the department's food production and distribution activities, including the AAA and the recruitment of farm labor.

The principal questions left hanging are whether Davis is to be responsible to Wickard in any way.

Wyoming Co. Village Has Costly Blaze

Meshoppen, March 26.—(P)—

A blaze that jumped from building to building like wildfire wiped out almost the entire business district of this northeastern Pennsylvania village of 600 within a few hours last night, razing 14 structures and damaging several others, including the three-story Meshoppen hotel.

The post office, the two-story plant of the Meshoppen Enterprise, a weekly newspaper, and the three-story Valentine furniture store which served farm folk of several counties, were among the buildings destroyed.

Fire Chief Charles Stevens declined immediately to estimate the damage, but said $100,000 would be "very conservative." The cause was not known. Stevens said he would investigate a possibility that it started from a bon-fire in the rear of a grocery store.

Fire companies poured thousands of gallons of water without avail. Volunteer companies came (Turn to Page Nine)

LOT OF SOLDIERS ARE GOING TO MISS MAIL

Washington, March 26.—(P)—The army reported today that 2,000 sacks of mail destined for American soldiers overseas were lost in recent weeks in the sinking of United Nations ships by enemy action.

It was impossible to supply any identification of the mail lost, the army said, but most of it was first-class letter mail which originated in various parts of the country, chiefly during February, and was addressed to points in Great Britain, Iceland, North Africa, Egypt and India.

Cigarette-Carrying Squirrel Has Blaze

Wilmington, Del., March 26.—

(P)—A cigarette-carrying squirrel literally burned itself out of house and home—in addition to giving firemen a brief workout.

A park guard discovered smoke coming from a crevice under the steps of a bridge and summoned firemen who said a park squirrel had carried a lighted cigarette into its leaves and wood-filled nest.

Farm Labor Bill Is Back In Committee

Bipartisan Senate Coalition Smashes Through Bloc Lines in Vote

INFLATION IS FEARED

Washington, March 26.—(P)—

A bipartisan senate coalition smashed through farm bloc lines today and by a voice vote sent back to the agriculture committee a house-approved bill to include a farm labor costs in parity price ceilings.

The measure, denounced by administration leaders as certain to bring about inflation by boosting food costs 10 1/2 per cent, was repealed unanimously by the committee last Monday at a 10-minute session, without hearings. It was on this basis that administration leaders mustered sufficient votes to sustain a motion by Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) to return it to the group for further consideration.

The administration was joined in this move by Minority Leader McNary of Oregon, who contended passage of the bill at this time would be used by organized labor to force wage increases that would break down inflation controls. McNary ordinarily supports farm bloc proposals.

Most of the nine new Republican members of the senate joined in supporting Lucas' motion.

CAR LOADINGS SHOW ENORMOUS INCREASE

Pittsburgh, March 26.—(P)—

Freight car loadings reached their peak of the year last week, when originating shipments increased 2.6 per cent, the University of Pittsburgh reported today.

Business in general increased fractionally to 148.8 per cent of the 1923-25 average, the university's index showed.

Bituminous coal production advanced slightly but electric power production was down 5.2 per cent from the preceding week.

Gross sales of 11 Pittsburgh department stores in the four weeks ended March 20 were one per cent under those in the same period last year.

REYNOLDSVILLE MAN KILLED AT ELDERD

Eldred, March 26.—(P)—John

Paul Breck, 26, of Reynoldsville, an employee of the National Munitions Company plant here, was killed today while disposing of rejected detonators by exploding them.

H. A. Hopkins, assistant to the general manager of the plant, said the accident occurred in a field away from the company buildings. Breck had been living at Olean, N. Y.

Meat Buyers Storm Shops

Philadelphia, March 26.—(P)—

Thousands of shoppers stormed markets today, seeking a portion of the city's fast dwindling meat supply.

Police were called to keep order at a Lancaster county farmers' market in the Germantown section, where more than 1,000 persons lined up at the doors.

Similar conditions prevailed throughout the city, with 25 to 50 persons waiting for the opening of virtually every store where meat could be purchased.

Sausages and hams were at a premium and disappeared quickly at the Reading Terminal market, one of the largest in the city. All dealers there predicted they would be sold out by noon. None planned to open tomorrow.

The first customer arrived at 5:45 a. m. at the Lancaster county farmers' market, which is open only two days a week. Scores were on hand an hour later and the management ordered the doors kept closed until police arrived.

Grand Total For Campaign in County Is Boosted to $58,149 At Concluding Report Meet

Warren county's over-subscription to the National War Fund of the American Red Cross by over $26,000 brought to a close the most successful Red Cross campaign in local history. $58,149.75 was the grand total reported last night, at the conclusion of the ten-day campaign, for a quota fixed at $32,000.

When Campaign Chairman B. W. Knapp called the workers to order in the Y. W. C. A. activities building, all present knew that a big surprise was in store, but there were but few who expected the total to be as large as was eventually announced.

Miss Grace Mitchell, in charge of all county subscriptions, reported over $11,500 from her districts. The total for the borough was in excess of $46,600 and enthusiasm ran high as the total of $58,149.75 was chalked up on the big board by

EXCHANGES AT INQUIRY ARE HEATED

Give-And-Take Arguments Punctuate Questioning Of Mine Chief By Committee

PLEADS "PROTECTION"

Washington, Mar. 26.—(P)—

John L. Lewis, in heated exchanges with senatorial investigators, turned on Senator Ball's (R-Minn.) mention of demagoguery today to shout "when you call me a demagogue before I can reply, I hurt it back in your face, sir."

This give-and-take was only one of many which punctuated the testimony of the United Mine Workers leader before the senate war investigating committee.

It was after an assertion by Lewis that coal miners weren't "getting enough to eat," that Ball remarked: "When you say that, it's demagoguery, pure and simple."

This brought Lewis' sharp reply and contention that Ball had not given him an opportunity to substantiate his statement.

The witness then asserted that thousands of coal miners were suffering dietary deficiencies.

"That is why I said there were miners not getting enough to eat," Lewis told Ball.

He added that "when you call me a demagogue without giving me an opportunity to show this, you are less than a representative of the people."

"I don't like that remark to a member of the committee," Chairman Truman (D-Mo.) spoke up sharply. "And I'm stopping it right now."

Irate Father Principal In Rescue Drama

Pittsburgh, March 26.—(P)—

In a real-life rescue outdoing the drama of a dime novel, an irate father pursued and captured last night a 27-year-old man whom he accused of abducting his six-year-old daughter as she played happily near her Penn township home.

Mrs. George B. Lucas, wife of an employee of the Edgewater Steel Plant at Oakton, said that while her daughter, Dianne, was standing in the road, the man seized the child and drove off with her, screaming, in his car.

The father, arriving home from work a few minutes later, raced after the abductor. Passing the fleeing car, he blocked it with his auto and dragged out the driver just as police reached the scene.

The girl was found on the floor of the car, unharmed and wrapped in a blanket to stifle her screams.

Justice of the Peace James W. Kirchartz, identifying the man as Donald Gibson Sproule, 27, of New Kensington, R. D., said Lucas signed a statement charging him with kidnapping and attempted rape.

Kirchartz said Sproule "refused to talk."

FATHER OF SIX DIES IN FARRELL ACCIDENT

Farrell, March 26.—(P)—Lytle

McWilliams, 36, father of six children, was killed today when a blast furnace exploded at the Carnegie-Illinois plant here.

Coroner P. E. Higgins said McWilliams, a pipefitter, received a fractured skull from flying debris. Company officials said the cause of the blast was undetermined.

PRESSURE ON SMOLENSK IS UNSLACKENED

Reds Press on in One Sector and Hail to Consolidate Positions in Another

BOMBS OVER HELSINKI

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, March 26.—(P)—Before mounting German resistance, the Red army steadily pressed on in one sector of the western front today and halted to consolidate its positions in another, but the general pressure toward Smolensk was unslackened.

On the northern Donets river battleground, the Russians fought bitterly against large units of Germans, the battle shifting this way and that in the Belgorod sector where, the mid-day communique said, the Soviets recaptured two settlements they had lost previously to the Nazis.

(The German high command in its Friday communique, recorded by the Associated Press from a Berlin Broadcast, said flatly: "No operations of special importance were reported from the entire eastern front.")

(A Finnish army report, also broadcast by the Berlin radio, said 200 enemy bombers last night attempted to raid Helsinki again but reached only the environs of the capital and their bombs caused no damage.)

(The Russian midnight communique as recorded by the London Soviet radio monitor declared Russian artillery had smashed German tank and infantry columns making new attempts to cross to the eastern shore of the Donets river east of Kharkov.)

(It reported that Soviet troops north of Chuguev successfully defended a height against a tank and mortar array supporting a German infantry regiment in one sector and that Russian field guns in another sector killed more than 500 attacking Germans. Russian firepower also dealt heavy punishment to German forces northeast of Kharkov, it was said.)

It was obvious from the character of the violent battle north of Chuguev that fresh German forces were at the battlefield.

In the Kuban valley, the Red army maintained the tempo of its renewed offensive.

The mid-day war bulletin told how the Russians crossed an unidentified waterway, fell upon the

Vichy Believed Facing Crisis

Madrid, Mar. 26.—(P)—The Spanish

press said today that a crisis in the government of Pierre Laval was considered imminent in Vichy political circles and dispatches indicated that the resignation of 14 members of the Vichy diplomatic and consular services in Spain had contributed to the growing tension.

The "counselor of the French embassy, Albert Lanarie, First Secretary, Renaud Sivan, Magr. Boyennas, religious attaché, and 11 others handed their resignations to Ambassador Francois Pietri Tuesday. Most of the outgoing diplomats have cast their lot with Gen. Henri Giraud, French high commissioner in North Africa.

Dispatches from Vichy said news of the Madrid resignations arrived shortly after the jailing in France of Col. Francois De La Rocque, former Croix De Feu. The resignation gave the German rulers in Vichy an opportunity to emphasize again their stand that a French foreign service is unnecessary under present conditions.

DRAGGED TO DEATH

Pittsburgh, March 26.—(P)—

Caught and dragged by a chain at the rear of a truck, William Heinlein, 43, died today of a fractured back and internal injuries. Police said the truck was driven by his brother.

Good News For Taxpayers Issued By Commissioners

With taxpayers still suffering under the shock of March 15th, a piece of good news comes from the office of the commissioners of Warren county.

The commissioners are now able to reduce the Institution District (Poor) Tax for the county from five to four mills. They hope to be able to continue this reduced millage and they will continue at the four mill rate as long as possible, but future legislation may place a greater financial burden on the counties, in which case the millage will have to be restored to the higher figure.

Honor Paid Members Of Local K. of C.

The principal item of business transacted at the regular meeting of Warren Council, 964, Knights of Columbus, last night, was the conferring of the Honorary Degree to nine members of the local organization.

The honor was bestowed upon the following nine men, who have reached the required age and who have a continuous membership of twenty-five or more years: A. A. Albaugh, F. J. McCoy, Dennis O'Leary, Wm. E. Gaughan, John H. James, George Zobrist, Harry J. Wilson, Wm. J. Gettner and H. R. Henderson. The beautiful ritual of the degree was beautifully exemplified by the officers and upon its conclusion Certificates of the honor bestowed were presented to the men.

At the conclusion of the exemplification, Rev. Salvatore Mitchell, assistant pastor of the Holy Redeemer parish, made a few remarks congratulatory to the nine men who have served so many active years as member of the local council.

Another matter of interest announced at the meeting was an exemplification of the Fourth Degree for the Third Pennsylvania district, composed of all the councils in the Erie diocese, to be held at Oil City on Memorial Day, May 30. It is expected that several from Warren will be in the class. George N. Powell, of Oil City, is the newly appointed master of the district.

AP Features
This simplified, easy-to-read chart contains all the information needed by the average-sized family on OPA point values for meats, fish, fats and rationed cheeses. By looking up once, it is just the right size to fasten in Ration Book 2 as a ready reference while shopping. Point values given for canned meats are based upon container sizes of large packers. Packed fish comes in a wide variety of sizes. Meat points are the same whether the item is fresh, frozen, cured or smoked, except as otherwise indicated. Points do not change if butcher removes bones, grinds or dices meat for you. Each person is at present entitled to use 16 points weekly for the above items.

Little Giant Ben Hogan At 50-Per

Dallas, March 26—(P)—The little giant of the fairways—laccenic Ben Hogan, who followed golf's golden trail for earnings of almost $100,000 in six years—is in the army at a salary of $50 a month.

But the former Hershey, Pa. pro commented with a grin that 50 bucks a month was a lot more than he had been making since his last tournament—the Rochester, N. Y., open last August.

"I played a lot of golf but it was for war relief and I ended up losing money," Hogan said. "He was quick to add, however, that 'I was glad to do it if I could help my country.'"

The 30-year-old Hogan was inducted into the army yesterday.

The Metropolitan Life Celebrates Four-Anniversaries

Founded in 1868, this company has 30,000,000 policyholders in the United States and Canada with total insurance of $27,000,000,000.

Frederick H. Ecker, Chairman of the Board of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, at left, celebrates 60 years of service this year, and Leroy A.
Lincoln, President, below, has served the company for 25 years. The famous Metropolitan Tower symbolizes the company.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Four anniversaries make the year 1943 memorable in the history of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Incorporated on March 24, 1868, the 75th anniversary of the company is of interest to its 30,000-000 policyholders in the United States and Canada. Incorporated with the company for $27,000,000,000.

Celebration of the 60th year of service in the company by Frederick H. Ecker, Chairman of the Board, and the 25th year of service by Leroy A. Lincoln, President of the Board, also occur this year.
While the fourth anniversary of the Metropolitan Home Office at 1 Madison Avenue, which has become a famous New York address.

The 60th anniversary of the Chairman of the Board is a significant in connection with the company's 75th anniversary. For Mr.
Ecker has been a guiding spirit in the destinies of the Metropolitan for most of the years he has served it. Employed by the Metropolitan as an office boy, his unusual ability and talent won him quick recognition. His handling of real estate, acquired under mortgage foreclosure during the depression of the '90's, saved the Company from heavy loss. Promotion made him responsible for Metropolitan investments, giving him the opportunity to make a name for himself in the financial world. His sound judgment put the Company in such a financial position that in the recent depression its payments to policyholders and their beneficiaries in each of eleven successive years exceeded a half billion dollars.

Better Housing Projects

Having risen from office boy to President of the Company, in 1938 Mr. Ecker was made Chairman of the Board and has held that position since 1937 without salary. In that time he has made a greater name for himself, realizing a dream to provide better housing for the people at a level within the reach of the family of moderate income.
In Parkchester, The Bronx, New York, the largest community housing development in the world, where more than 40,000 persons reside in garden apartments at a rental far below the average cost of comparable accommodations, he not only made this dream a reality but also invested company funds profitably. Under his guidance the company is now engaged on other housing projects in Los Angeles and San Francisco, Calif., and one in Alexandria, Va.

In line with its policy of "continuity of service" among Company officers, Mr. Lincoln, who had specialized in insurance law, came to the Metropolitan in 1918, and after various promotional steps reached the Presidency of the Company in 1936. In addition to his duties as President during the past seven years he has personalized the Metropolitan to its 50,000 employees.

In ordinary times these four anniversaries would have been given fitting celebration. However, after the Pearl Harbor incident the United Metropolitan called off all large gatherings in the interest of its war effort. Helping the United States and its Allies in this effort, the Metropolitan last year invested more than its increase in assets in American and Canadian Government securities. It has urged its entire personnel not only to buy War Bonds to the extent of their resources, but has also encouraged them to aid in the sale of War Bonds and War Savings Stamps and to take an active part in civilian activities related to the war.

W. J. Prout, of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment will be in the Tidoute cemetery.

In loving remembrance of Mrs. Josephine Julian, who died one year ago today, March 26, 1942. In a small and quiet churchyard There I see a flowery mound, There our mother lies so peaceful, In the cold and silent ground. HE took her, oh, so tender, And we never can forget her, For we miss her more each day. All the angels sing around her, There the warbler sings his song. But we sit at home so lonely, Since our mother's dead and gone. Sadly missed by Husband and Children. 3-26-11*

Caliguiri In Uncle Sam's Uniform Now

New Cumberland, Pa., Mar. 25.—The 3rd of March brought two contracts to Fred Caliguiri, rookie pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics. One was from Connie Mack, veteran manager of the ball club; the other was from Uncle Sam. Caliguiri accepted the second and is now awaiting his Army assignment at the New Cumberland Reception Center. Scouted by Chief Bender when he was the pitching sensation of Greenville, (N.C.), in the Coastal Plain League, the 24-year-old twirler was signed up by the Athletics and farmed out to the Wilmington (Del.) Blue Rocks for the 1941 season. His record for that year was 16 victories to only four losses. He donned the Athletic's uniform at the end of the 1941 season and won two games against Boston and Cleveland and lost two to Washington and St. Louis. After training with the A's in the spring of '42 at Anaheim, Calif., he served as a relief pitcher throughout the season. Caliguiri reported to New Cumberland on the day his teammates began spring training at Wilmington, Del. He told interviewers he wanted to get his processing over with soon and begin training for the job of aviation mechanic. A graduate of Endeavor (Pa.) High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Forton Caliguiri, of West Hickory, Pa. His wife, Anne, lives in N. C.

Blomquists - Mighty Sheffield O'Connors Vie For Title Honors

The curtain drops on the 1943 basketball season at 8:00 p. m. tonight on the YMCA floor, and the cast of the best two teams in the "Y" circuit are set to battle it out for honors while the audience is expected to pack the wings of the semi-circular balcony to witness the struggle.

The Blomquist Furnitures, winners of the YMCA cup and championship, face the O'Connor Machine Shop of Sheffield for the Shaughnessy playoff title in a spectacle that will rates top billing for the 1943 season as they prepare to board up the windows to fans for the year.

In this successful '43 season, the best in basketball has been offered to Warren fans and some of these long-remembered epic tilts that always insure the backers of teams future standout seasons from the fan's angle have been put on the hardwood of the YMCA this year.

At the start of the season, the O'Connors and Blomquists always battled evenly and took over the spotlight. Then the Rock Cleaners rose from oblivion and took a crack at honors—which lasted a few weeks. Struthers-Wells cut loose in a frenzy toward the end of season and nearly overtook all players—but there still remained the fighting Irish in there all the time to give the Bloms the stiffest fight of the bunch. They beat them last week in a thriller and the season ended—now the playoffs.

A sudden cut in the season, due to working hours has brought the season's finale a week sooner and as the two teams take to the woods has brought the season's finale a week sooner and as the teams take to the wood tonight, they'll each be going all-out to cop the mythical glory of championship.

FARRELL HICAGERS ARE SET FOR TILT

Philadelphia, Mar. 26.—(P)—The so-called underdogs of the PIAA basketball finals don't think they're underdogs at all—and they're all set to prove it.

"Sure they're tough, but we've got a great chance," coach Todur Lewis said as his Farrell High team prepared to tackle high-touted Lower Merion in Penn's Pennsylvania tomorrow night for the PIAA championship.

"We're rather tired of having the East win the title all the time," he added. "Lower Merion has a tough club, but we have a pretty good team too. We have a chance of beating them, especially if our shots are hitting like they did against Scott."

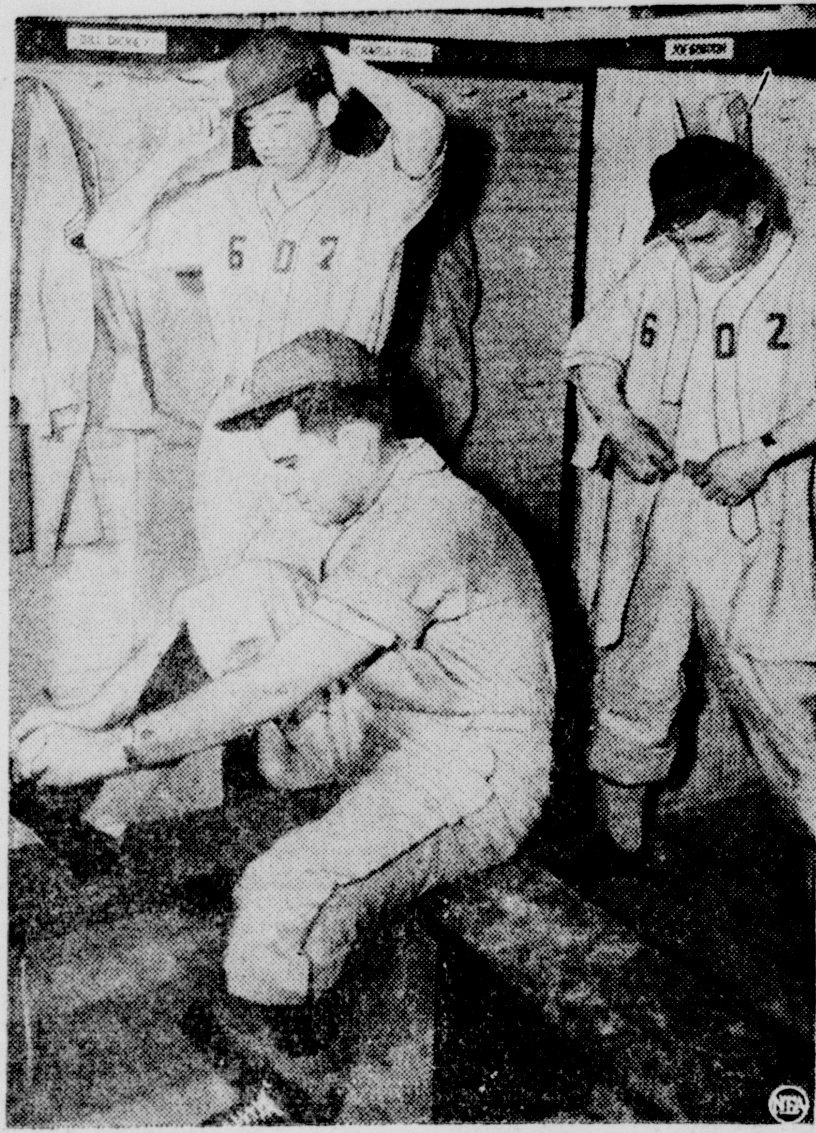

Farrell walloped Scott 51-23 for the Western Pennsylvania regional crown and the right to battle it out with Lower Merion, champion two successive years.

The challengers practiced on the Penn floor yesterday and Lewis called another session for 3 p. m. today.

"The Palestra is a swell place," Lewis said. "I think the boys like it too."

Farrell has won 23 of its 24 games this year. Lower Merion has a record of 55 victories in 56 starts during a three-year period. If the defenders win tomorrow night, the success would extend their current winning streak to 30 straight.

ELKS LANERS READY FOR LOOP EVENTS

The handicap championship matches to be held at the Elks club through next week, have taken over the spotlight for the horned one's kegging activities with record turnouts assured the committee already.

Entry fees and team rosters have all been submitted to the originator of the series, Myron Clock, President of the league. Enthusiasm has never run higher in the Elks circles.

Eight man teams are going in to the rolling for the week and will be followed by doubles and singles events with a swelled up prize list never equalled.

The bowling committee of the club deserves a huge ovation for the manner in which this event has been conducted and it should bring about a yearly occurrence for the matches.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

By the Associated Press

Hershey, Pa.—Pitcher Lynn (Schoolboy) Rowe read of his chase by the Phillies in a newspaper while he was on the way to the Brooklyn-Montreal training camp, so he got off at the stop and took another train. When Manager Bucky Harris asked if he still had some games in him, Rowe replied: "Well, I got my right arm, ain't I?"

Wilmington, Del.—"My guess," said Connie Mack, "that he is a lively ball." He had watched Robert Estelle, Mackiewicz, Pete Suder and Brucker hit over the 335-foot field wall and Elmer Vale, a drive off the fence 400 feet in center during the Philadelphia Athletics' first batting practice.

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Mar. 26.—(P)—The hotel where the Yankees are staying during spring training at Asbury Park, N. J., is constructed largely of material salvaged from the New York World's Fair. . . the club is being constructed mainly of material salvaged from the Cleveland Indians. . . Needless to say, neither is a finished product yet. . . and, incidentally, another deal to buy the Yankees is supposed to be cooking with an entirely new bunch of names listed as prospective purchasers. . . Only hint we can give is that it might be appropriate, if these guys do get the Yanks, for them to swap with Tom Yawkey, who lives in New York but owns a Boston club.

Isolation Island

By JOHN C. FLEMING and LOIS EBY

Chapter 21

JOSE was leading Don's spirited white horse across the courtyard when O'Shanessey and Hansen came out of the castle for the usual guest tour of the estate. O'Shanessey's great laugh resounded as he looked at his son, waiting beside one of the stone entrance lions, his riding whip flicking it impatiently.

"You leaving us this morning, Don?" He winked roguishly at Hansen.

Don turned to smile at the two as he took the reins from Jose. "I'm riding over the island to inspect the corn harvest," he said. "Landa's going with me."

Landa, in a white riding habit, hurried out of the hacienda to her waiting horse when she saw him approaching.

"All set," she cried. "Maria wanted to fix us lunch, but I'd rather eat with the natives wherever we happen to be at noon. Wouldn't you?"

Don smiled at her. "What you want, I want, Landa mia."

They walked their horses through the winding jungle path down to the beach and spurred down for a heady run down the length of the white sand. Landa was laughing breathlessly as they slowed to a trot along the rutted tree-shaded ox-cart road leading to the first group of native huts. Don noted she hadn't once glanced out toward the Sea Bat. His morose fears of the day before had been groundless.

THE morning wore on blissfully. At every cluster of thatched, wide-eaved huts, they were greeted uproariously. News had already flown around the island of the festival to be held at the castle.

While they made the usual eager trips from their huts and fields to show their proudest achievements in ears of corn, embroidered huipil or fresh-molded olla, they chattered incessantly of the festival, giggled softly among themselves.

Don told them when they were to arrive, of the mariaches engaged to play for the dancing, and other details of the fabulous evening.

Everywhere women and children were busily grinding corn on the metates into masa for the tamales. Sometimes the pungent spiciness of the filled tamale, rolled in banana leaves and boiling in ollas over small fires, filled the air. There was no one in the hammocks today.

Landa's heart swelled with happiness during the triumphal procession about the island. Never, she felt, had two people approached marriage with so many good wishes, so much love showered upon them. She felt a glow of pride as she watched Don, gravely hearing native problems, adjusting grievances.

His eyes examined each ox-cart load of corn with absorbed interest, his commendation bringing wide grins to the face of the planter. And she knew he was not posing. He was genuinely absorbed in the crops, fond of the natives, even as they adored him. This was his life. One day it would be as completely hers. It did not frighten her now. It was a matter, as Jim had told her, of gradual adjustment again to the world of her childhood. She couldn't expect it to come in a day, but it would come again because this would be her world and Don, whom she loved, her husband.

SHE came out her reverie to find Don's eyes on hers. He laugh rang out as he nodded toward an old Indian going back to his field for a fresh load of corn. "He would like very much to know when the wedding is to take place," he explained. "He would like to be sure to have his corn harvested so that he can enjoy the three-day fiesta."

Landa's joining laughter held a note of tenderness. She had, she felt, mistaken the gentleness and strength in this lover of hers for weakness. She said softly, "An you, Don, I don't suppose you want to know?"

His hand closed on hers but he covered the eagerness of his glance with a twinkling smile. "I might," he said.

"All right," Landa cried merrily. "You name the day!"

The old Indian was returning, now, stumbling under the weight of his load. As he let the golden ears roll into the ox-cart, Don turned to him. "Amigo, you are the first to know the wedding day."

The old Indian straightened and beamed breathlessly. "It will be," Don said slowly "in twelve days."

Later, as their horses moved together through the jungle road toward the hacienda, Landa glanced at her fiancé with a "affectionate" pout. "You didn't seem to be such a rushing hurry about the wedding," she murmured.

He turned to smile at her reached over and captured her hand to kiss the tips of her fingers. "A man should show a decent spirit of independence at such a time, no?" he teased.

His eyes evaded hers, went past her into the green aisles of the jungle. Suddenly he whispered "Ssssh!" and brought his horse to a stop. He helped her off and let her stealthily along a hidden trail under a brilliant canopy of flowering trees to a river bank. Flat on their stomachs beside the water, two small native boys were lying watching a leaf covered pool with tense fascination. Landa laughed with indulgent understanding.

"Fishing with poisoned leaves!" she murmured. "Are you going to scold them like our father scolded us? Tell them it isn't sporting?"

Don shook his head as he bent to kiss her tenderly. "Not today my beloved. I couldn't scold any one today."

OVER the flickering candles on the dining table that night Don made the wedding announcement to O'Shanessey and Hansen. His father roared his disappointment. "And why does she have to wait twelve days, please?"

A new strength burned on the younger man's sensitive face. "It was my choice," he said clearly. "The other papaya buyers will be back before then and if this deal of yours is not bona fide, we will settle with them. I love Landa, and I intend to be certain she is not tricked into this marriage."

How to become an Aviation Cadet TODAY

An Announcement^{*} of Vital Importance to Every Young American Who Wants to Fly for His Country

*This announcement is made with the approval of the Joint Army-Navy Personnel Board.

OUR Army Air Forces, swiftly and steadily expanding, are striking terror in the hearts of Axis leaders. No nation on earth has developed air power so vast or so deadly in its effectiveness. The fighting fliers who man those thousands of sleek new planes will play a mighty part in the final victory. And the opportunity to be one of them is still open to you!

Here is how you can become a U. S. Army Aviation Cadet

If you are 18 to 26 years old, inclusive, and have not yet been called for induction under Selective Service, you may apply at once at the nearest Aviation Cadet Examining Board to take your physical and mental examinations. No school or college credits are required. If you pass the examinations and are found acceptable, you will be given a letter to the Armed Forces Induction Station requesting your assignment to the Army Air Forces upon induction. You may then volunteer for induction through your local Selective Service Board. After induction you will be assigned for preparatory training, upon completion of which you will receive your appointment as an Aviation Cadet and have an opportunity to become a Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot—one of the "Three Musketeers of the Air"!

2. If you have already been called for induction, you cannot apply direct for Aviation Cadet training. But upon induction, if you are assigned to the Army, you have the same opportunity open to every soldier, 18 to 26 years old, inclusive, to apply for Aviation Cadet training after you are in the ranks.

If you are 17 but not yet 18

3. If you are 17 but not yet 18, you can go now to your Aviation Cadet Examining Board and volunteer for enlistment in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. If you pass the physical and mental examinations and are accepted, after you become 18 you will be assigned for preparatory training, leading to appointment as an Aviation Cadet. Enlistment under the age of 18 requires parents' or guardians' consent.

You may apply at the nearest Aviation Cadet Examining Board or write to The Adjutant General, Washington, D. C.

Officers of the Erie Recruiting and Induction Station will be at the Warren Elk Club, Hickory street, all day Monday, for the purpose of conducting Aviation Cadet mental tests. Arrangements have been made for High School students to be excused for this purpose. Interested young men who may be unable to report to the examiners are reminded that the nearest Aviation Cadet Examining Board, where they can apply, is located at the Post Office Bldg. in Erie, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron F. Kirberger, 10 Orr Place, have had this week a most reassuring message from their son, Robert A. Kirberger, sent from an overseas station and saying "all well and safe." With the exception of a telegram on February 25, "Well, Love," this is the first word they have had since December 19, when he was preparing for embarkation. He enlisted in the navy last July and was formerly located at Newport, R. I.

Another Warren boy who has finished basic training at Camp Bowie, Texas, and is transferred to Camp Hood is Pvt. Lloyd E. Peterson, who left with the January 6 contingent from Warren.

STUDENTS ENJOYED PICTURES OF MEXICO

Students and faculty at the Hoff Business College were pleased in having Dr. J. A. Davidson, First Baptist minister, as guest speaker at an assembly held Thursday morning.

Mexico, the Land of Tomorrow, was vividly presented through color films and movie reels which Rev. Davidson took on his tour of that country last summer. Students gained a more intimate knowledge and a better understanding of our southern neighbors from these beautiful illustrations and Dr. Davidson's interesting discussion of the colorful and picturesque customs of the people. He showed some prominent places as the old Mexican cathedral and the Palace of Fine Arts, as well as a variety of street scenes in the city, which is as modern as Chicago. Perhaps the most important impression left by the speaker was the very cordial and hospitable attitude of the people. The school is looking forward to having him return for a showing of his pictures of Algiers and North Africa.

Every month an average of 702 freight trains, most of them carrying vital war goods, are delayed an average of 460 hours because of carelessness by the men and women who drive automobiles.

The grade crossing accident illustrated here is an example:

At 1:32 a.m. (more than 1,900 grade crossing accidents occurred at night last year) a freight train passed through a city in accordance with the speed limit. The locomotive's headlight gleamed through the darkness and the regulation whistle warnings were sounded.

The engineer saw a gasoline tank truck crossing immediately in front of the engine and, realizing the imminence of the accident, applied the air brakes, but was unable to stop in time. The impact tore the gasoline tank open. Gasoline ignited and exploded, killing the engineer, fireman and a brakeman, as well as the oil truck driver.

The locomotive and 27 freight cars and their contents were damaged by flames. Three homes nearby caught fire and burned, as well as two parked automobiles and one express truck.

The National Safety Council is conducting a special campaign to stop these grade crossing accidents, which every day delay an average of 38 trains a total of 22 hours—a serious drain on the nation's war transportation effort. Driver carelessness is the cause of almost all grade crossing accidents, according to the Council. To help win the war, to save yourself and others needless suffering, the Council asks you to be sure the track is clear before you start across.

Youngsville Orchestra To Give Concert

At 8:15 this evening the Youngsville high school orchestra will present its spring concert in the school auditorium. It has been the policy in the past two years for the school's music department to give one or more free concerts each season and tonight's program is being presented without admission charge.

Byron Swanson, school music director, has prepared an interesting program which will include orchestral selections, violin features and piano compositions.

It will open with the March Fantastique, prelude from Bizet's "Suite L'Arlésienne", and the Allegretto from Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata", played by the orchestra; Amariyllis by Ghys, Ruth Carlson, Bernice Crippen, Helen Popovich, Mildred Krogler, Carmen Hendrickson, violinists; The Holy City by Adams-Henley, David Wingard, violinist; Rondo and Allegro by Pleyel, Helen Horner and Carmen Hendrickson; The Little Sandman Lullaby by Brahms and the Adagio from Beethoven's "Sonata Pathétique", orchestra; Rhapsody in Blue by Gershwin, Vernon Jones, pianist; Petite Symphonie by Moret, David Wingard and a faculty member, Charlotte Erickson; Tales of the Vienna Woods by Strauss and a medley of American national airs arranged by Zamecnik, orchestra.

Students and director have worked diligently in preparation of the above program and it is hoped the attendance will be in keeping with their efforts.

SEYMOUR TO TALK BEFORE YOUNG FOLK

Chester R. Seymour, new Boy Scout executive for Warren county, will address young people at the Church of Tomorrow in the First Presbyterian church at 7 p. m. Sunday. There will be but four more sessions of the Church of Tomorrow before it closes its season at Easter.

Charles Hubbs will preside, with

Chapter 22

SEVERAL days before the festival Hansen anchored his launch twenty miles down the coast and waded ashore to the narrow cove flanked by deep canyons and barren, precipitous slopes. Four white-clad men came from a tent to join him at their campfire. They were a surly lot, and did not respond readily to his orders. In the end he grew angry and impatient at their arguments.

"Can't you see," he growled at them, "that it would be stupid insanity to use force when we can accomplish the same thing without it by waiting a few more days? You're letting a few mosquitoes and scorpions warp your judgment."

Hansen stared him down, then turned on his heel and walked down to the water to wade toward his launch riding at anchor in the sheltered inlet beside a smaller motor boat. "You'll follow my orders Saturday night, or I have given them!" he snapped. "I'll join you soon after."

It was late afternoon when he ran the launch into its berth beside the dinghy in O'Shanessey's boathouse, and climbed the hill to the castle.

O'Shanessey greeted him with a shout from the top of a ladder in the vaulted entrance hall. He held up a long trailing vine and a hammer.

"Look what they've got me at, now, they'll have you tying turosses on the turrets, by heaven!"

Landa, standing below in a bright Mexican short and blouse, laughed.

O'Shanessey groaned as he wielded the hammer.

DON and Jose came in, lugging a huge tub of vines between them. "Hello," Don greeted Hansen as he dropped the end of the tub and mopped his brow. "You've been missing a lot of excitement around here. Decorating this place is always as much fun as the festival itself."

"I can see that," smiled Hansen. "And I'm ready to lend a hand right now. What's that?"

"That's what I wanted to hear," grinned Don. "Have a good trip down the coast?"

Hansen took the vines as Don separated them and carried them over to O'Shanessey. "Not too good," he said ruefully. "I stopped at every village where there was any papaya at all, but the prospects aren't so hot. Brown and McCullough seem to have covered the territory pretty thoroughly."

"They're persistent thieves," agreed O'Shanessey jovially. "Been trying to make me sell them papayas for years."

Jose came in again now to interrupt gently. The lumber O'Shanessey had ordered, Hansen followed Don curiously into the huge central room, and watched as he helped the well-trained natives in the erection of a rude platform at one end of the room. "What is that for?" he asked.

Don smiled. "Father has always built a platform for the musicians," he explained. "We put the marimba up there, and the mariaches—our native orchestra. And then at the end of the festival, Father sings upon it. It's the crowning event, you know. He added with a humorous twinkle. He broke off to hold a board in place for a native carpenter. "By the way," he added, when it was pounded into place, "I don't want to seem impolite, but I trust you understand we must know definitely that we have sold the papayas to you before the other buyers return next week."

"I certainly understand that," Hansen assured him. "I'll have the papers ready for you to sign the day after the festival."

Don smiled at him in sudden happy confidence. "You know I am most grateful to you, Senor," he said softly, "for convincing my father to sell at this time. It means so much more to me than the price of the papayas."

DON had insisted that Jim Blair come up for dinner at the castle these last evenings, and it was a merry company that adjourned to the dining chamber. O'Shanessey lifted his goblet with a jovial shout. "This drink is in honor of Hansen!" he cried. "It is made from the juice of the papaya."

A laugh echoed around the table. Landa's happy eyes met Jim's for a second before she raised the cool drink to her lips. It was a toast to peace.

Afterwards, Don, Jim and Landa strolled out to see a new foaled colt at the stables leaving O'Shanessey and Hansen smoking in the courtyard. They were no sooner out of sight than O'Shanessey closed his Irish story hurriedly and lowered his voice to a sterner tone.

"I wanted to talk to you, Hansen."

Hansen tipped the ashes of his cigar carefully against the stone retaining wall, and smiled as his gaze swept the densely-foliaged outlines of the island below him and the outlines of the Sea Bat silhouetted against the thin strip of moonlight on the dark surface of the straits.

"I imagined you did," he murmured with crisp humor. "When you told the others I had already seen the colt."

"You haven't told me just what you're going to do on the Sea Bat," O'Shanessey complained.

HANSEN yawned and replied amiably. "I don't intend to, O'Shanessey, beyond the statement that it will be to the best interests of us both."

"Look here," O'Shanessey's great voice rumbled with anxiety, "you're sure we won't be implicated?"

Hansen's amused voice carried calm assurance. "Are you insinuating I wouldn't carry through my debts of honor? Nothing will occur Saturday night to cast a doubt on my legitimacy as a papaya buyer. I will see your son and his fiancée's signature on my contract before I leave, and they will be long and happily married before my magnificent papaya company mysteriously goes out of business. I must ask you to take my word for this as a gentleman."

"That I will do gladly," O'Shanessey returned with a wily grin. "I know a gentleman when I see one, sir. But about Saturday night—will you need a boat to go out to the Sea Bat?"

"I won't go out," Hansen told him. "That's exactly why you and I will run no risk." O'Shanessey gave a short, relieved "Ah. So you have aid!" Hansen's smile deepened. "Rather powerful aides," he murmured. To be continued.

GOP Hopeful For Passage of Ruml Plan

(From Page One)
This put new emphasis on the efforts of a newly forming bloc to draft a compromise between full abatement (Ruml) and no abatement (committee) that would cancel out a substantial portion, but not all, of one year's taxes.

There are 208 Republicans in the house and 222 Democrats. The debate on pay-as-you-go collections for 44,000,000 income taxpayers entered the second day with Rep. Reed (R-NY) charging that the committee bill, if adopted, would put the small taxpayer at the mercy of "loan sharks."

"I shall follow the leadership of the committee on matters of courtesy," Lewis said.

To launch such an enterprise it was believed here that the navy might strike more deeply into the Solomon archipelago by invading either the Munda area immediately beyond Guadalcanal or attacking Bougainville, the big island at the northwestern end of the chain.

Believe It or Not---

WE HAVE THE SUITS!

All over America the cry is "SUITS!" And all over America you find the same story. Not one-fourth enough suits to fill the demand! Racks swept clear in a single day's business! Manufacturers unable to deliver because of shortages of materials and workers! Such is the suit picture in the country today, as you can verify for yourself.

But Metzger-Wright's foresaw the situation as far back as last November and began placing orders for Spring deliveries. For weeks our powerful New York office—representing a buying power of nearly a quarter of a billion dollars—has been working for us, checking on deliveries, covering the market daily.

The result is—not the tremendous stock of suits we WISH we had, but probably the BEST stock in this part of the State. Ready for you Saturday! We cannot prophesy what we will have next week—or the week after—or the week after that. But for this coming Saturday we have a big stock, at all prices!
